

Maryland Implant Society

A Continuing Education Forum for Postdoctoral Studies in Comprehensive Care

Serving Those Who Strive To Perform Fine Dentistry

History of the Study Club

The Maryland Implant Society, formed by Dr. John Mennitt in 1991, is located in suburban Maryland adjacent to Washington, D.C. The Maryland Implant Society was the first dental continuing education organization in the Middle Atlantic region to adopt the tenants of Dr. Michael Cohen by becoming an affiliate chapter of the Seattle Study Club's "University without walls".

The Maryland Implant Society's motto is "A continuing education forum for postdoctoral studies in comprehensive care—serving those who strive to perform fine dentistry". In our fourteenth year, we remain unique among dental study clubs in that we focus on Comprehensive Treatment Planning of patient cases as well as remaining current in the latest technical aspects of dental implantology. We continue to limit the number of members to those dentists who have demonstrated a commitment to clinical excellence.

We currently host three evening dinner meetings in Columbia MD as well participation in the all-day Sherril Ann Siegel Memorial lecture in December of each year. Informal treatment planning sessions are scheduled as needed.
